

New Paltz First Class Town Listing Poses Questions

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

NEW PALTZ

The recently announced preliminary census figure of 10,236 for the Town of New Paltz, placing it in the First Class Town category, poses the question for town officials whether or not to accept the options of designation and its nebulous advantages.

Townships in the state when they attain 10,000 population or more may accept certain First Class Town options and must undergo some fundamental changes in municipal structure.

The makeup of the Town Board changes with the composition consisting of the supervisor and from two to six town councilmen. The town justices are no longer seated on the Town Board but serve in their judicial capacity only. The members of the board, the supervisor and the town justices are still elected.

New Paltz Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello, discussing the options said it is too early to make a determination. He said he has an open mind on the subject and it will bear some study in regard to the advantages and disadvantages. He noted there have been several changes in First Class Town designation in regard to what is mandatory and what is optional. Moriello said it was his understanding that a First Class Town could retain a full-time attorney, engineer and comptroller, but these were options and not necessarily mandatory. The town highway superintendent could also be appointed or elected.

There are also some changes in regard to the town constabulary. A town police force could be established but when this is done, the town and the applicants must meet civil service requirements. He agreed this could be costly as it involves pensions and other fringe benefits.

He said it will take some study to determine if the advantages outweigh the extra cost of going "First Class."

Assistant County Attorney John J. Lynch said under First Class Town designation the positions of town tax collector and school tax collector are abolished and the new office which assumes both duties is titled, Receiver of Taxes and Assessment. The town has the option of having the position appointive through the Town Board or he may be elected to the post. There is also the option to appoint a deputy collector.

Special

Lynch said there is also the option to appoint a deputy town attorney and a deputy town engineer.

A full-time town attorney may be appointed on an annual basis if he resides within the township. If however there is none available in the town, a town attorney may be appointed on a fee basis from out-of-town.

As to the town comptroller, Lynch said this appointment is not mandatory under First Class designation. A director of purchase may also be appointed, but this also is not mandatory.

Under First Class designation the town clerk may be appointed or elected. These decisions are up to the Town Board. A Building Department may also be established, but this also is not mandatory, Lynch said.

In contrast to general opinions of town officials in the county, the Legal Department of the State Office for Local Government in Albany says First Class Town designation is automatic as soon as it is determined that a town's population exceeds 10,000. There are some options in the makeup however, according to John Sauerwald of the Albany office. These same options were outlined above.

Sauerwald said that the towns involved may elect any new officials they decide they want in November of this year or appoint them at their organizational meetings in January 1972. A town in this category starts functioning as a First Class Town on Jan. 1, 1972. This only involves the towns whose population exceeded 10,000 in the federal census of 1970.

There are four in Ulster County now, Saugerties, Wawarsing, Ulster and New Paltz. Saugerties now has 16,667 population and Wawarsing, 11,384. Both have been operating as First Class Towns. The Town of Ulster with a population of 11,399 in the 1970 head count, has taken some First Class options but in the main has been operating as before.

New Paltz reached the 10,000 mark in the census last year and is currently planning a study as to what options it will accept.

Sauerwald further advised there is no advantage of more state aid as a First Class Town except the increase in per capita assistance.

He noted that the Legal Department of the State Office for Local Government is reviewing the options and they will be updating these stipulations for town officials in the near future.

Summations Begin In Murder Trial

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

Summations by counsel were delivered today before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and a jury at the trial of two Bronx men, charged with the murder of a Westchester County deputy sheriff during an alleged escape attempt on the Thruway in 1968.

Indications were that the case would be in the hands of the 11-man, one-woman jury later today, who will decide the fate of Charles Culhane and Gerald McGivern, who are accused of killing Deputy Sheriff William Fitzgerald during a shootout.

Joshua N. Koplovitz, counsel for McGivern was first to address the jury as court reconvened this morning. He spoke for 80 minutes during which time he read parts of the testimony of Deputy Sheriff Joseph Singer, a key prosecution witness.

The attorney contended that Singer changed his story several times since the day of the shooting and the attorney noted that the deputy frequently replied to questions "I didn't mean it that way," when earlier testimony was read to him. Koplovitz asked the jury, "How can you not have a reasonable doubt in this case. I submit there are countless grounds for a reasonable doubt." In conclusion he told the jury that a proper verdict would be "not guilty" for both defendants.

Culhane's attorney, Paul Vladimir followed with his summation.

When Vladimir completes his summation, Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher is scheduled to address the jury after which Judge Mino will deliver his charge to the jury on points of law.

Culhane and McGivern were accused in an indictment handed up by an Ulster County grand jury of attempted escape and murder in the death of Deputy Sheriff William Fitzgerald, 63, of Westchester County on the afternoon of Sept. 13, 1968.

The authorities were told that the shooting incident occurred off the State Thruway in the Town of Plattekill while Fitzgerald and another deputy sheriff Joseph Singer, 60, of North Tarrytown, were transporting Culhane and McGivern and a third Auburn Prison inmate from the upstate institution to white Plains where they were to testify at a hearing on a writ of coram nobis.

The third inmate, Joseph Bowerman, 25, of the Bronx, was also killed in the shootout. Culhane and McGivern were both wounded during the shooting incident.

The writ scheduled for hearing in White Plains in 1968 was obtained by Culhane, who told authorities he had been the victim of coercion by Westchester County assistant district attorney, who Culhane said, had promised him a light sentence if he pleaded guilty to robbery. Culhane was subsequently sentenced to 7½ to 10 years in prison.

The first trial before County Judge Mino and a jury of nine men and three women was held last June and ended in a mistrial after the jurors reported to the court they were hopelessly deadlocked and could not agree on a verdict.

The second trial was ordered. Meanwhile, Paul Vladimir, counsel for Culhane, and Joshua N. Koplovitz, attorney for McGivern, moved for a change of venue, seeking to have the second trial held in a court outside Ulster County. Defense attorneys contended their clients could not receive a fair trial in this county because of unfavorable pre-trial publicity.

Defense counsel lost the move for a venue change in the Appellate Court in Albany.

The second trial for the defendants began Jan. 5 with the selection of a jury, and on Jan. 13, a jury of 11 men and one woman was seated with two alternates.

First witnesses for the prosecution were called to testify

Jan. 14. Deputy Sheriff Singer was on the witness stand for three days before he was finally excused. The deputy's testimony under direct examination by Assistant District Attorney James H. Kerr was contradictory to the version he gave of the shooting incident at the first trial.

Under cross-examination by defense counsel, Singer changed his testimony several times and frequently said his previous testimony was probably what he said but he "didn't mean it that way."

Neither defendant took the witness stand before court recessed Thursday afternoon when both sides rested. Culhane had testified at the first trial.

Twice during the second trial McGivern interrupted the session by shouting, "That's a lie and you know it is." The out-cry came during Singer's testimony.

LIRR Sabotage Suspected, 43 Injured in Derailment

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (AP) — Authorities, suspecting sabotage, are seeking to determine who broke into a locked switch box and opened a switch that derailed a Long Island Railroad train and injured 43 commuters.

Volunteer firemen using acetylene torches and hydraulic jacks freed a trainman, the last of five persons trapped in the tangled wreckage, five hours after the accident late Sunday afternoon.

Nine persons were admitted to three hospitals with unspecified injuries. One woman was reported in critical condition.

A railroad spokesman said a broken lock on the switch box pointed strongly to a case of sabotage. The Federal Bureau of Investigation and Suffolk County police were called in.

Meanwhile, the railroad said it expected normal service on the line by rush hour.

The open switch forced the eastbound train to turn sharply from the mainline onto a spur at 50 to 60 miles per hour. The momentum sent the locomotive and three passenger cars tumbling down a three-foot embankment.

As they did, the rear end of the locomotive crashed six feet into the mid-section of the first car, trapping occupants. Some 100 other passengers aboard the eight-car train were hurled about amid screams, tumbling baggage and shattering windows. Some panicked trying to scramble out.

"It was a nightmare," said Denise Patrick, 24, an assistant dean at the State University at Brockport, one of the injured passengers.

"I was joking when the train began to jerk a little bit. I looked up and saw the conductor. He was gripping the back of a seat. He had a strange look on his face, as if he was terribly frightened."

"Then the car lurched over. Something fell on top of me. Everybody was screaming. It seemed like an eternity before the police reached us."

A light snowfall slowed floodlighted rescue efforts by volunteer firemen from 15 communities, various police departments and railroad emergency units. The danger of fire loomed, because of spilled diesel fuel.

Two men wedged between crushed seats were freed at about 7 p.m. A 15-year-old boy and a 16-year-old girl were cut free at 9:40 p.m.

A crane on a flatbed trailer was still clearing wreckage from the spur early today. Police removed the switch and took it to their headquarters for examination.

A railroad spokesman said another train had passed through the switch without mishap 50 minutes before the accident.

Almost six hours after the derailment, a young man telephoned The Associated Press and claimed that "The Weatherman" had caused the wreck while "on acid." However, he was vague or erroneous on details. Contents of the call were relayed to authorities.

Those admitted to hospitals were:

At Southside Hospital in Bay Shore: Gloria Hoey, 46, of Brentwood, critical condition; Dennis D. Wheeler, 21, of North Babylon, serious condition; Brian Unger, 15, of Lake Grove, and John Thomas, 36, of Central Islip, both in fair condition; Ruth Perlungher, 16, of Central Islip, good condition; Eugene Butta, 37, of Brentwood, satisfactory condition.

At Smithtown General Hospital: Daniel Boyle, 30, of Ronkonkoma, and Patricia Carter, 13, of Central Islip, both in fair condition.

At Good Samaritan Hospital in West Islip: Oliver Dorsey, 27, of Deer Park, fair condition.

Nixon Going to People On Six-Point Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has reacted to congressional skepticism over his six point design "to give America the foundation for a new greatness" by preparing a public appeal for support that could carry into the 1972 campaign.

At particular issue among the President's six points are plans to recast the Cabinet structure and establish a $16 billion federal-state revenue sharing program.

To the straight-out opposition to one or both of the proposals Democratic Senate Leader Mike Mansfield added another ingredient Sunday—the changes are so broad he doubted they can be handled in just one session of Congress.

Republicans obviously take issue with such talk. Sen. Robert Dole, the new GOP national chairman, said Sunday Republicans will have a ready-made campaign issue in 1972 if the President's plans aren't enacted—whatever the reason.

"The people want it," the Kansas senator said.

The President, however, will kick off as much momentum in the Congress as he can before making anticipated Democratic resistance a political issue. That, evidently, was the motive behind Nixon's meeting today with the leaders from Capitol Hill.

In fact, Clark McGregor, Nixon's new congressional liaison man, told reporters Sunday House and Senate leaders at every level from both parties will spend some time at the White House discussing the legislative program.

Before the week's end, McGregor said, ranking majority and minority members from "each and every committee" will be invited for briefings and discussions.

But the President appears to be covering all openings and White House sources said Nixon is prepared to take his case to the people in a personal campaign.

That means, they said, Nixon will meet with public officials in some areas and make direct public appeals in others. Cabinet officers, including Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, will be called on to bolster the campaign beginning this week.

Nixon's policies were getting immediate boosts as well as criticism.

California Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, among the first to meet with Nixon the day after Nixon set forth his sweeping reform proposals, termed revenue sharing "at the heart of Republican philosophy."

Revenue sharing, giving state and local governments direct and generally unrestricted blocks of federal money, had aroused the strongest immediate congressional resistance.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., and Mansfield, said Sunday they feared the federal government would become a mere tax collector for local government.

Mansfield said he doubted Congress would be willing to surrender the power accompanying federal purse strings or hand out money without some clear idea how it would be spent.

A major portion of the revenue sharing proposal—$6 billion—would be unrestricted in that fashion.

State Budget Nearly Ready, — New Levies Are Expected

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller and his fiscal aides put the finishing touches today to his new state budget, which is expected to propose record spending of nearly $8.4 billion and seek increases in the sales tax, the income tax and the levies on liquor and motor vehicle registrations.

The Republican governor made a quick round-trip to Washington to testify at a congressional hearing on the nation's economy. He was to give the final go-ahead on his budget plan upon returning.

But, administration sources reported, the major decisions already had been made and all that remained was to tidy up the language of the budget message that he will send to the legislature next Monday.

Segments of the massive fiscal document already have been sent to the printers. The balance was to be delivered tonight so that it could be "locked up" for the printing run.

The sources described as "quite accurate" reports that the budget would propose to:

— Raise state spending from the present total of just over $7 billion to approximately $8.4 billion.

— Increase the state's three-cent sales tax to four cents, which means a maximum levy of seven cents on the dollar in communities that also have local sales taxes of three cents.

— Impose a 10 per cent surcharge on the state income tax and eliminate the $25 "credits" that taxpayers may deduct after computing the amount due.

— Raise the levies on liquor and motor vehicle registrations by about one third.

Rockefeller will tell the legislature, the sources said, that the $1.3-billion spending increase he seeks is attributable almost entirely to measures enacted at last year's session. The bulk of it is for financial aid to local governments and for state-employee pay raises and fringe benefits.

Meanwhile, returning to session today, the legislature will focus its attention on the $203 million "deficiency budget bill" that Rockefeller submitted last Wednesday.

The measure is offered annually to cover spending items for the fiscal year expiring March 31 — items that, at least theoretically, were not anticipated when the old budget was adopted.

It seeks only $14 million in "hard cash" spending authority — a relatively small sum for such a bill. But, among other things, it also asks for commitment of another $130.4 million to further construction of the state's South Mall office-building project in Albany.

The project has been a target for economy-minded legislators. Thus, considerable grumbling is expected — especially at a time when Rockefeller has been calling for "belt-tightening" measures to help the state through a severe revenue shortage.

The money for the Mall would be advanced to the county of Albany, which is building the project for the state on a leasing arrangement. Eventually, the funds would be repaid. But the project's over-all cost continues to climb, the latest estimate being $850 million.

Although Rockefeller has been campaigning hard for a huge increase in federal aid to help the state with its money problems, the sources said he had made his tax-and-spending decisions before President Nixon delivered his State of the Union message Friday night.

Nixon prescribed a major federal revenue-sharing program, and Rockefeller promptly hailed the proposal as "a major breakthrough" in his campaign. But the governor also pointed out that Nixon recommended only half of the $10 billion that Rockefeller sought for all of the states in the program's first year and that the money would not begin to flow until 1972, instead of mid-1971 as the governor had urged.

During Obote's Absence

Uganda Coup and Counter Coup

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Gunmen broke into an Air Canada terminal at Heathrow Airport before dawn today, looted the strongroom and escaped with an estimated $72,000 worth of gold bullion, police reported. Carrying shotguns and clubs, the raiders forced two warehousemen, a cargo agent and a security man to the floor, tied them up and gagged them.

Four or five men were in the ports of a coup and a counter coup. Obote was due back today from the Commonwealth conference in Singapore, and it appeared that his foes had tried to supplant him in his absence.

Heavy fighting was reported in the Jinja area, about 70 miles from Kampala. One report said troops loyal to Obote had tried to break through opposing forces and head for the capital.

Tank, rifle fire and explosions shattered the early morning stillness of Kampala. Sporadic shooting was going on long after dawn.

Unconfirmed reports said there had been an attempt on the life of Maj. Gen. Idi Amin, commander of the armed forces. Other reports said Amin appeared to be in charge of military operations and that he had been arrested.

An unconfirmed report said the army's Simba Battalion had mutinied and come out in support of Defense Minister Felix Onama.

"The situation is still totally confused, and at this time it is hard to say who is supporting who," said the senior police officer.

Entebbe Airport, on the northern shore of Lake Victoria about five miles from Kampala, was closed.

The strife apparently began in Kampala about 2 a.m. when a large explosion was heard. Almost immediately fierce small arms fire echoed through the city.

Troops took up positions at all major buildings and ringed Obote's residence with tanks.

Pravda Would Move UN From N.Y.

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda thinks the United Nations should be removed from New York if "hostile hooligans" there continue attacks against Soviet diplomats and offices.

A Pravda story Sunday from New York correspondent Omas Kolesnichenko implied that U.S. authorities intentionally encouraged attacks on Soviet and Arab missions to the United Nations.

"Indeed, what else can explain the fact that American authorities have not taken effective measures to cut short and prevent hostile hooligan actions?"

"Now, as the question of construction of new United Nations buildings in New York is being discussed, it is necessary to give serious thought to the question of whether the United Nations can count on normal functioning in that city."

The Pravda story was part of the continuing Soviet campaign of retaliation against harassment of Soviets in the United States by militant Zionists. The campaign has included intimidation of American residents in Moscow.

The latest Moscow incident involved Washington Post correspondent Anthony Astrachan, who was pushed and threatened Saturday night by five Russians when he tried to meet a Soviet friend who the correspondent said was "neither a dissident nor a Zionist."

Kolesnichenko, in his Pravda article, said "more than once many delegates of the United Nations raised the question of the feasibility of the further locating of the U.N. headquarters in New York, a city that . . . has become a center of organized crime and gangsterism."

The Soviets repeatedly have insisted the United States has "connived" in attacks on Soviet diplomats by militant Jewish groups. The Russians retaliated in the Soviet capital by damaging American-owned cars and accosting U.S. diplomats, businessmen and journalists.

Drug Arrests Reported In New Paltz, Dutchess

NEW PALTZ R. Lockhart, 27, all of Rosen-wood, and Robert J. Craig, 18, of Maspeth and Edward J. Coonerty, 19, of West Islip.

The defendants all pleaded guilty before Justice Schneider. They were fined $50 or five days in jail each. They indicated the fines would be paid. The arrests were made by Officer Louis Olsen, who investigated complaints from college police.

Meanwhile, in Northern Dutchess County, Rhinebeck State Trooper Joseph Martino arrested two 19-year-old Long Island youths Sunday and charged them with criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the sixth degree, marijuana and criminal possession of an implement for drug use, a pipe. John Conway of New Hyde Park and Michael Allocca, Bayside, L. I., were arrested at 10 p.m. on Rte. 9 in Hyde Park. Arraigned before Hyde Park Justice Harold Mangold, they both pleaded guilty to both charges and were placed on three years probation each and released.

Shah Puts Squeeze On Western Oil

TEHRAN (AP) — The Shah of Iran has threatened Western oil companies with widespread nationalization in the next decade.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi told a news conference Sunday that Iran might take over the refining of its oil when present contracts expire in 1979.

"The oil companies then will come only as buyers and customers and take our oil to its destination," he said. "We shall then invest in the countries in which the oil is sold. This would make us partners in a downstream operation right to the gas station. That is my hope and my goal."

The ruler of one of the biggest oil producers in the Middle East, the Shah said that unless the companies and producer nations reach a new price agreement by Feb. 3, the 10 members of the Organization for Petroleum Exporting Countries will join in counter measures that "might be anything, including a stoppage of oil."

But the Shah said the negotiations have not deteriorated into a crisis and won't so long as the companies do not try to "bluff us or put on such pressure that they think they can make us surrender."

OPEC Nations produce about 85 per cent of the world's oil outside the United States and the Soviet Union, principally for heavily industrialized Japan and Western Europe. In the event of a shutdown, Western Europe's reserves are thought to be enough for almost three months' demand while Japan's are much less.

The OPEC nations are demanding from 16 international companies price increases of about 20 cents a barrel plus hikes in their tax cut from 50 per cent to 55 per cent. The companies have offered a five-year agreement with prices adjusted annually to compensate inflation, but they want a uniform agreement for all 10 nations.

The Iranian ruler said that is unacceptable but that his country and the other Persian Gulf states—Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Abu Dhabi and Qatar—would accept the extended agreement if its price index were based on international commodities markets.

If the companies insist on a global rather than a regional settlement, the Shah said, the OPEC would demand one similar to Venezuela's new law, which provides for a tax increase of up to 60 per cent. In addition to Venezuela and the Persian Gulf countries, the OPEC includes Libya, Algeria and Indonesia.

At one of his rare news conferences, the Shah Sunday told the oil companies to meet the demands of the Persian Gulf oil producing nations by the Feb. 3 deadline already set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

"We will not be bluffed," the Shah said during the 2½-hour news conference in the Hall of Mirrors of his Niavaran palace. "Our demands are legitimate. We have been reasonable so far. Let us remain reasonable."

At least three OPEC nations have threatened to ration or cut off their oil if the demand is not met. The stoppage would leave all Western Europe and Japan without fuel.

Tillson Man Held for Army On Desertion

TERRANCE WAYNE MILLER, 21, of Box 319, Springfield Road, Tillson, RD., was arrested Saturday at 2:10 p.m. by the Ulster County Sheriff's Department on a military detainer warrant issued by the U. S. Army, charging desertion.

He was confined to Ulster County Jail pending the arrival of military authorities from Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn.

The arrest was made by Deputy Richard Bockelmann and James Eckert.

Two Unhurt As Plane Flips

DOVER PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Two men escaped injury Sunday when their small plane flipped over while making an emergency landing in a field.

State police said Paul Drusik, 41, of Wappingers Falls, took over the controls from the pilot, Martin Schrenck, 50, of Poughkeepsie when the Cessna 150 failed to respond to the throttle after being in the air 45 minutes.

Drusik landed the plane, but it flipped over when the nose wheel stuck in the snow, troopers said. The wings and tail were damaged moderately.

Millions See Rocks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency says 41 million persons got a glimpse of moon rocks from the Apollo 11 and 12 missions during exhibits around the world last year.

In the United States, moon samples were on display at some time in all 50 states and were viewed by 12 million persons. Almost 14 million filed by the lunar rock display at the Expo '70 in Osaka, Japan.

Mental Ward Escapee Nabbed at Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Syracuse police arrested a man early today whom they said escaped from the mental ward of a Montreal prison Sunday evening.

Police identified the man as Garrett Brock Trapnell, 32, of Charlotte, N.C. They said he escaped from Bordeaux Prison with two hostages — a guard identified as Julian Morin and a young woman whom they said was a prison stenographer Nicole Forget.

Montreal authorities said earlier they believed the woman was a visitor who slipped a .22 caliber pistol to Trapnell during visiting hours at the prison Sunday.

Prison officials said Trapnell grabbed the woman at gunpoint at the end of visiting hours and shouted, "Okay, all of you — open the door or the girl gets it."

Guards said the couple then ran out the main door, seized Morin and all three got into a 1968 black Mustang.

Prison officials described Trapnell as extremely dangerous, but Syracuse police said he surrendered without a struggle when confronted in a bus station waiting room.

A police spokesman said Trapnell ordered his two hostages to drive him across the Thousand Islands Bridge where he apparently "talked his way" past Customs guards.

He then allegedly forced the two to take him to Syracuse where he left them in the downtown area.

Morin and the woman called police from the bus station and as officers arrived Trapnell walked in.

Police said he had the gun with him at the time of his arrest.

Although police described him extremely dangerous, a prison guard said Trapnell was "anything but violent."

"He was a ladies' man and was real depressed at having to celebrate his 33rd birthday in prison, Jan. 30."

Trapnell was ruled unfit to stand trial on four armed robbery charges in October.

Child Dies

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Carlene Davis, 4, died during the weekend after she ate six pain-killing pills left by her mother on a kitchen table.

The child was taken to Inner City Clinic Saturday when her father noticed she was having difficulty standing. Authorities said the parents found six Darvon capsules missing from the mother's prescription.

The girl was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Bill Introduced by Rolison Would Honor Viet War Vets

ALBANY

Those men and women who served in the U.S. Armed Forces in the Vietnam conflict would be honored and recognized under a bill introduced by Senator Jay P. Rolison, Jr. (R., Dutchess-Ulster). The bill would include such service personnel under the coverage of the Blue Star Memorial Highway application to the state thruways.

The Blue Star Memorial Highway is a network of national highways in memory and recognition of those who served in the U.S. Armed Forces in various wars and conflicts. Under New York State law, those who served in World Wars I and II and in the Korean conflict are honored by the Blue Star Highway designation.

Senator Rolison's bill, being introduced in the State Assembly by Assemblymen Willis Stephens (R., Putnam-Dutchess), will add men and women who served in the armed forces in Southeast Asia.

JAY P. ROLISON

In proposing the measure, the Senator said, "In these days when we are moved by the plight of our men who are prisoners of war, I think it only due and fitting that we recognize their contribution, as well as all men and women who have served in our Armed Forces, regardless of any basic feeling about such conflict."

"Therefore Assemblymen Willis Stephens, Erneel Betros and H. Clark Bell have joined with me in proposing that the state thruways designation as a Blue Star Memorial Highway be broadened to include those in our Armed Forces who have served during the current conflict."

"We all hope and pray that this designation need ever again be broadened to cover any others in the future, for we hope and pray that there shall never again be a situation calling for it."

Small Claims Tax Court

The United States Tax Court has set up a small claims division in conformance with the Tax Reform Act of 1969. It enables taxpayers to ask for a trial in a tax dispute with the Internal Revenue Service of less than $1,000 for any one year in income, gift or estates-tax cases.

A few petitions have been filed with the small claims division, but it will be quite a while before any large number reach the court, according to Francis J. Cantrell, assistant clerk of the tax court. Simplified and relatively informal trial procedures are available to taxpayers. They can argue their own case or they can hire a lawyer. Trials will be scheduled in cities as conveniently located as possible to the taxpayer.

To have a case tried in the tax court, the taxpayer must have received a statutory notice of a deficiency from the commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service and filed a petition for trial within 90 days. There is a $10 fee for filing petitions asking for a trial.

Caution: The court's decision in a small-claim case is final. It may not be appealed from as in cases before the U.S. Tax Court proper, where decisions can be appealed to the U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia. The small claims hearing is a convenience for the taxpayer and as such kept as simple as possible.

David Lawrence Says Steel Executive Says Union Power Must Be Curbed

WASHINGTON — Many paradoxes are present in the economic life of America nowadays. But there is none in which the reluctance to apply reform is so widely ignored as in the exercise of enormous power by the large labor unions. Rarely does any businessman speak out on the subject. Not often does anybody in Congress come forth with the suggestion that labor be treated like business and that union monopolies be subject to the same treatment as the antitrust laws have required for several decades in dealing with corporate monopolies.

But at last a prominent business executive has spoken up to say that the power of labor unions must be curbed if inflation is to be curtailed without resort to wage and price controls. R. Heath Larry, vice chairman of U.S. Steel Corporation, in a speech before the Economic Club of New York last Wednesday, declared that the big unions revealed their power and their contribution to inflation by their ability to force higher wage settlements at a time when unemployment was rising. He pointed out that wage trends within the non-unionized sector recently began to respond to reduced job opportunities and lower profits. "But not so in the unionized sector."

Mr. Larry also asserted that it is important for the United States to become more competitive in world markets and that, if wage costs are allowed to continue to rise, American manufacturers will not be able to match the prices of products made in other countries and will lose the opportunity to sell goods in various parts of the world.

Because of the relative silence maintained on these phases of the labor-union problem, very little has been done to prevent wage costs from reaching extreme heights without any real advance in productivity. Mr. Larry said that the rate of increase in labor costs per man-hour in manufacturing has been gradually going up, and has more than doubled the long-term average rate of gain in output per man-hour. He declared that the continuation of the wage trends of the recent past is "a luxury this nation simply cannot afford."

As Mr. Larry pointed out, in the period between 1965 through 1969, Japan, Germany, France, the Netherlands, Sweden, Italy, Canada and the United Kingdom all surpassed the United States in terms of their annual rate of improvement in output per man-hour. He added that our rate of rise in unit labor costs exceeded all the foregoing countries with the exception of Canada.

American companies have felt the increasing pressure from lower wage foreign competition and are finding it more and more difficult to meet. Improved productivity is, of course, one of the answers. But, in the words of the U.S. Steel executive, "improved productivity alone won't solve our problem."

In his view, the remedy may be "somewhere between revising the union bargaining structure to help it become more responsive to marketing forces" and "embracing permanent and enforceable controls."

Analogies have been drawn from time to time between the power of large labor unions and the power of big companies to exert an effect on competition. But the Congress has never attempted to pass any law to restrain the imposition of high wage costs which the major companies in an industry can afford to pay but which drive the smaller ones out of business, thus giving an advantage to the corporations that they would never be permitted to get even by mergers.

What, it will be asked, is the reason for the fact that Congress has kept its hands off this phase of the monopoly problem in America? It is because the labor unions have managed to mobilize political influence in such a way that they can bring about the defeat of members of Congress who cast their votes in opposition to union labor's wishes.

For years now, the law has prohibited labor unions themselves from making contributions to campaigns for federal offices or from using any part of a workers dues for political purposes. But this has been circumvented by the establishment of committees which are set up under the auspices of unions and are indirectly responsible to them. Such committees do their solicitation among labor-union members, and the latter know very well that they are expected to participate in the drives that are made to raise funds for political campaigns. Members of Congress often owe their election to the support of these organizations.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Three men of God sat at lunch in the rip-roaring, wide open gambling city of Las Vegas. It was Friday. Rabbi Aaron Gold jokingly said: "I'll have a ham sandwich." Father Francis White was about to order a ham sandwich, but the Episcopal minister, Father Carl Spatz, said that he still ate fish on Friday, so all of them settled for tuna fish on toast.

These servants of heaven, in addition to the clerics of 100 churches and temples in Las Vegas, are close to the gambling fraternity. They enjoyed their lunch, and their ecumenical conversation, in a room a hundred feet away from the clanking slot machines and clicking dice of The Hotel Showboat casino.

The Showboat, which is off the brilliantly lighted rich casinos of the Vegas Strip, has a family atmosphere and lower prices than the gaudy palaces of Howard Hughes and Jack Entratter. It is no irony that practically all of the places of worship were built on gamblers' money, in fact, the preachers were lunching as guests of Joe Sheehan, who runs The Showboat.

Doctor Gold is dark-haired, a handsome articulate man who has the twin senses of commiseration and humor which are concomitant to a good rabbi. His temple, Beth Sholem, has 10,000 communicants and, although he comes from Philadelphia, he would rather serve God in Vegas than anywhere else.

"I remember," he said to Father White, "when a predecessor of yours wanted to build that big beautiful Guardian Angel Shrine on the Strip. Three Jews named Moe Dalitz, Joe Bok and Ruby Kolod donated the land and raised ninety per cent of the money to build it."

Father White recollected that, before his time, the ministerial association of Las Vegas seven years ago, the association amended its constitution to admit Doctor Gold. Last year, he was president of the ministerial association.

There is a confraternity spirit, a brotherhood, among clerics and gamblers difficult to describe.

When Father Patrick Toomey left Saint Victor Roman Catholic Church a year ago, it was the congregation of Beth Sholem which prayed for him at a special Friday night service, and contributed a purse to send him on a trip to Rome and Israel.

Father Carl Spatz, the modest priest of Christ Episcopal Church, nodded and kept refilling the coffee cups. He comes from Oklahoma City, is slender and young, and was born with happy eyes. He husbanded joy listening to the other two. "The big gamblers," he said, "are the most charitable people I've met."

Gold said that a woman not of his faith had gambled beyond her means and had written bad checks totaling $1,800. She was headed for jail. The word was passed to the casino owners. They chipped in — even though they were the ones who had been robbed — and sent her home free and in tears.

Father Spatz said that gamblers who win sometimes stop in the Episcopal Church and say: "Here's ten per cent of my winnings." In Father White's church, on the collection plate, he finds $100 chips instead of cash. It is possible even probable — for a compulsive gambler — for a broke in Las Vegas and end up starving in a shack on Fremont Street, but it isn't possible for a church to become insolvent.

The three concluded the lunch with no dessert, with a smidge of philosophical conversation. "I came from Springfield, Illinois," Father White said, "and I'm amazed that gamblers of no particular faith have more reverence for the clergy — and more respect — than any group I've ever met."

Rabbi Gold was talking liturgy. He won the applause of his confreres when he said that at solemn services, he had a combo play the music from "Hair." He asked all children to confess their sins to their parents; all parents confess their sins to their children and both to conclude by confessing their sins to God.

It worked. The generation gap disappeared. Services ended in a Jewish temple with everyone singing "Let the Sun Shine In." The people sang so loud and fervently that, when the music stopped, the children shouted, "One more time."

The three left their lunch and started for their separate temples built for the one God. The slot machines were silent for a moment. Men and women nodded greetings to the clerics. Then they were gone. The one-armed bandits spun furiously...

Jack Anderson Says U.S. Air Power in Cambodia Because Situation Is Desperate

WASHINGTON — The reason U.S. air power has been thrown into the Cambodian conflict, of course, is that the situation is desperate. Here are the bleak facts:

1. The Cambodian Army, despite its remarkable morale, is too green to fight off the communist threat alone. Communist harassment of the supply lines into Phnom Penh is slowly strangling the Cambodian capital. The Lon Nol government is critically short of resources to equip the army and maintain the economy. Both Defense Secretary Mel Laird and Joint Chiefs chairman Adm. Tom Moorer, upon their return from Southeast Asia, reported gloomily that the Cambodian predicament is growing worse.

2. South Vietnamese ground forces have gone to the aid of Cambodia at the prodding of the U.S. high command. In return, the South Vietnamese were promised all the supplies they would need to carry out their mission, plus air support if they ran into trouble. In a nutshell, the Nixon administration is getting around the congressional restrictions on military aid to Cambodia by providing the assistance instead to South Vietnam and encouraging the South Vietnamese to do the fighting.

3. In our last report on the Cambodian crisis, we stated that the U.S. intervention in Cambodia, which President Nixon had promised would speed the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, now threatens instead to slow the pull-out. The U.S. command had counted upon the South Vietnamese Army to protect the dwindling American Forces. As long as the best South Vietnamese divisions are tied up in Cambodia, General Creighton Abrams has warned against going ahead with the pull-out. There has been no change, so far at least, in the withdrawal schedule for ground troops. But the U.S. command has virtually stopped sending home air units. Only a few administrative personnel are now scheduled to be withdrawn.

Volpe's Vacation
Transportation Secretary John Volpe, accompanied by his dark-haired wife Jennie, recently flew around the world in a sleek, white Coast Guard jet. They stopped at such vacation spots as Vienna, New Delhi, Bangkok, Manila, Hong Kong, Taipei, Tokyo and Hawaii.

Estimated cost to the taxpayers: $29,360. First-class fares on commercial airlines, in contrast, would have cost only about $2,616 apiece.

The Coast Guard craft, which served as their plush private plane on the trip, was purchased for $2.9 million in 1968. Its carpets and cushioned interior cost the taxpayers an additional $204,029.

A spokesman said the Volpes made the trip to confer with foreign officials "on transportation and other problems of international concern."

Enzyme Itch
A mysterious malady, which we have unscientifically labeled the "enzyme itch," has got Americans across the country scratching furiously.

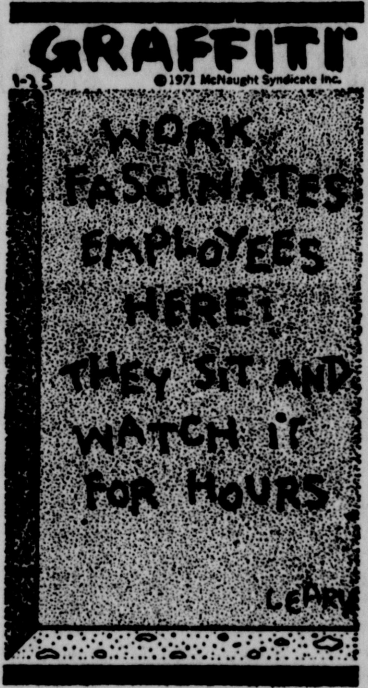

We wouldn't dare guess the number of sufferers. Rather than run up doctor bills, most victims use the simple home remedy of digging their fingernails into the annoying affliction. Yet a spot check indicates hundreds have gone to dermatologists for relief. At least 150 have complained to the Food and Drug administration.

Some dermatologists tell us the itch is caused by enzyme-containing laundry detergents. Others are either less positive or less frank about their diagnosis. A Food and Drug spokesman said the agency has medical reports on 60 cases. Of these, 14 definitely were linked to enzyme detergents.

We received a loud dissent, not unexpectedly, from Proctor and Gamble, which has turned out more than one billion packages of enzyme detergents since 1966. A spokesman assured us that "enzyme-containing products are as safe and mild as nonenzyme products."

The company used more than 11,000 housewives to test the product in their homes, he said, before enzyme-detergents were introduced on the market.

Meanwhile, Food and Drug has put up $7,500 to determine the extent of skin sensitivity caused by detergent additives, another $39,977 to study the effects of these additives on lung tissue.

Dr. Hausner Claims Soviets Are Using Jews as 'Hostages'

By TOM CULLEN
LONDON—(NEA)—Russia's 3.5 million Jews are being held as hostages in order to force a Soviet solution of the Middle East crisis.

This is the way Dr. Gideon Hausner, chief prosecutor at the 1961 trial of Nazi concentration camp boss Adolf Eichmann, explains the present carefully orchestrated campaign of anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union.

The anti-Jewish drive led to the recent trial of 11 Leningrad Jews on charges of hijacking. Outraged world opinion forced the Soviets to commute the death sentences passed on two of the defendants, but the Leningrad hijack trial is only the beginning of a program to destroy the Jewish community in Russia, according to Hausner. The program is designed to pressure Israel into making concessions to the Soviets and their Arab allies in the Middle East, he contends.

Hausner, a former Israeli attorney-general, came to London to talk to leaders of British Jewry about what can be done to help those Russian Jews—estimated at 500,000—who want to emigrate to Israel, but who have been refused permission to leave.

"Not being allowed to leave for Israel, these Jews stand in danger of being destroyed by not being allowed to live as Jews," says Hausner, a short, bald man with a genial smile. "Already they are restricted as far as worship is concerned. There is only one synagogue in the whole of Moscow, and Jews are not allowed to teach the history of their own people. On top of this, Jews are being hounded from their jobs as being 'unreliable' servants of a foreign power."

Hausner, recently elected to a second term in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, has made a study of the anti-Semitic pamphlets being circulated in Russia.

"Even the Nazis could learn a trick or two from these pamphlets," he says. Some of the pamphlets blame Israel and the Jews for inciting the United States against Russia, others identify the Jews with such "untouchable" states as Portugal and South Africa.

While showing concern for present-day Jewish victims of persecution, Hausner is battling to keep alive the memory of the six million Jews who were annihilated by Hitler.

His most successful scheme to date has been to persuade more than 1,000 Israeli schools each to "adopt" one of the vanished pre-war Jewish communities in Europe as a research project.

"Some of these Jewish communities, like the one in Salonika, Greece, had a history that went back way before Christ," he explains.

"Others like the Warsaw Jewish community, were over 1,000 years old. Today nothing remains of them. They have sunk without a trace, like the lost continent of Atlantis."

Hausner now plans to extend his scheme by getting Gentiles interested in it. "The holocaust of Europe's Jews is part of 20th century history," he argues. "No understanding of Israel today is possible without taking this traumatic experience into account."

Israel has suffered from a peculiar generation gap in that its youth have found it hard to understand those holocaust days. How is it that the tiny state of Israel could defeat five Arab armies, and yet the six million Jews were allowed to perish without widespread resistance, the young people ask.

"The Eichmann trial changed all that," Hausner claims. "During the trial I received 10,000 letters from Israeli youth alone. Their message was: 'Now we understand, and for the first time we can honor our dead parents—thank you for opening our eyes.'"

"Before the Eichmann trial, the Jews destroyed in the gas ovens were mostly statistical data as far as the new generation was concerned. It was only when individuals took the witness stand to testify that the tragedy came alive."

"We are careful not to encourage our young people to feel animosity or hatred towards the present generation of Germans, who are in no way to blame," Hausner adds.

Task U.S. Shirks: Job-Train Oldsters

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — We talk a great deal about the underprivileged. Consider the man (or woman) over 45.

According to recent studies, less than 10 per cent of our federal-state job training and retraining is aimed at these oldsters.

Yet they probably provide most of our actual long-term unemployment.

Figures are difficult to come by. Many of these middle-aged-and-older men and women have given up trying to find work. They are, therefore, not counted in unemployment statistics.

But there are guesses. Add some recent government estimates on this hidden joblessness to the official published figures and you get some startling totals—a real 45-and-over unemployment of 4.4 million, an effective unemployment rate close to 15 per cent.

We are talking about men and women who need work. Many need it desperately. Out of this group we are talking only about those who want to work, and are capable of working full- or part-time, either today, or with suitable training or retraining.

Many of these people saved money all their lives so they would not be a burden on others. They now find their small incomes gnawed to the bone by inflation.

The number of oldsters who want to work is astonishingly large. One example: The current estimate is that between four and five million men and women 55 and older would be interested in working as part-time community service aides.

A number of older men and women have been spectacularly successful in the Peace Corps, and in the "paunch corps" for retired businessmen. It is reported that in a number of pilot projects, variously called Green Thumbs, Green Light and Senior Aides, older men and women have shown proficiency.

This column has reported before on business studies which show that, contrary to popular opinion, selected older men and women have proved themselves highly reliable, and that they take to retaining and to new knowledge as quickly as young men and women many years their junior.

Of course, this isn't the whole story. There are many older men and women so disabled, so old or so beset by illness they cannot work.

Overall, as publicized recently, one out of five men and women over 65 live in poverty—almost five million in all. And nearly eight million 45 and older fall below the poverty line.

We read with horror of those barbaric peoples who left their elderly out in the open so that they would die and not be a burden on the younger population.

But there is something equally barbaric in this half-living, half-dying. Here are men and women. Many want to work. Many have proven their reliability, their integrity and their talents. Most are not asking for charity. What are we telling them except to die (unless they've saved enough money)?

Justice Schneider Supplies the Space Set Paltz Probation Office

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Responding to a plea of the Ulster County Probation Department which is seeking free office space in New Paltz and Ellenville, New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider has offered the use of his private office in town hall.

Last week, Probation Director Charles E. Schultz told of the need for two or perhaps three offices to accommodate the three new probation officers which will be hired by the county July 1 in compliance with a new state law which calls for presentencing reports in misdemeanor cases.

Schneider has long requested additional probation help to serve New Paltz and other areas of the southern part of the county. The Justice told a recent meeting of the New Paltz Town Board that his and other Justice courts need more probationary services which, until now were in short supply due to a manpower and money shortage in the Probation Department.

Chairman of the Ulster County Legislature Peter J. Savago, upon hearing of Schneider's offer of office space, lauded the move saying it is a great step forward in increasing services to the New Paltz Justice Court. He added, he hoped additional space in Ellenville and perhaps some other Town in the northern part of the county would be forthcoming.

Justice Schneider told the Freeman that in the past he often would have liked to put young men on probation if there were someone in the community that could see them "once a week."

The addition of a probation officer for the New Paltz area and Schneider's offer of office space will aid the court in being able to mete out probationary sentences when advisable.

According to Schultz, a new state law effective Sept. 1, 1971 makes the hiring of additional officers mandatory. This is due to the fact that as of that date, presentencing reports from the Probation Department will then be required in misdemeanor cases where the sentence calls for probation, where the sentence is for 90 days of more and for youthful offenders.

Presently, the new law requires pre-sentencing reports in the case of felonies.

Under the present system, the Probation Department is based in Kingston and probation officers work out of the County Office Building. Having officers located in two or three towns will make it easier for persons on probation to report periodically and receive assistance from the department.

Schultz said that the additional officers will be hired for the last half of the year and that funds are available for salaries. However, there are no funds at present for office space.

Environment Study Set at Bard College

By TIM SCHUSTER

ANNANDALE ON HUDSON
Members of the Bard College administration are excited about the environmental research program to begin in September, the first of its kind in the state.

Due to its unusual geographical location on the Hudson River at the point where the tides meet fresh water, Bard officials petitioned the Charles E. Merrill Trust Fund for funds to build a research station on the river. The college announced a grant of $36,000 for one year several months ago.

Since that time, according to college vice president Robert Bruce, a committee has been set up to screen applicants for the position of director of the program. "We are looking for a bright, young Ph.D. in ecology or environmental biologist," explained Bruce.

Construction on the river station, which will be a simple cinderblock affair with some laboratory equipment and room to sleep, will begin this spring after a director has been chosen.

Bard College owns one-half mile of river frontage, and has access to more, including the mouth of a freshwater stream, tidal flats, marshes and the North and South bays. This is a principal spawning ground for striped bass, shad, and sea sturgeon.

The possibilities for studying bird life are also manifold. The area is an important flyway for migratory birds, and has an extraordinary number and variety of birds in residence.

Some of the waterfowl are the blue-winged teal, black s, mallards, widgeon, shovellers, greater and lesser scaup, redheads, canvas backs, Canada geese, and the rare osprey.

The really unique situation is the fresh water tidal meeting. The study of freshwater intertidal organisms is possible which could have far-reaching effects and evolutionary consequences, according to Bruce.

No other college or university has established an area for biological studies in a tidal freshwater area. Part of the far-reaching plans, said Bruce, include possible cooperation with Stony Brook of the state university on Long Island which has an ocean research center.

And the area could serve as a training ground for graduate students from other colleges and universities, if future state grants or other monies become available.

But the primary objective is to give Bard students in this field an opportunity to engage in the research. This grant was aimed at providing the beginning of an ecology major course of study at Bard, as well as

Kingston Hospital Reelects Leaders

TRIULZI (L), SALZMANN, DeFOREST, PETERS

KINGSTON public schools. Reelected trustees include: Harlow DeForest, Francis H. Delaney, Richard M. Kalish, Abraham Wilbur R. Peters, president; Abraham Streifer and Bevier H. Sleight as vice presidents and Amos R. Newcombe as treasurer and Christus J. Larios as secretary.

Peters, who has served as president of the hospital board since July, 1968, is Upper Hudson Division manager for Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. Abraham Streifer is a Kingston attorney and Sleight is Works Manager for Hurcules, Inc., Port Ewen plant. Newcombe serves as president and treasurer of Austin R. Newcombe & Co., Inc. Larios is a professional engineer with Brinnier & Larios.

Newly elected to a three-year term on the Board of Trustees is Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of the Kingston Broadway Wing, a project begun some seven years earlier. The Intensive Coronary Care-Intensive Care Unit, occupying the fourth floor, was opened to patient care in March, utilizing 11 of the total of 15 beds ultimately available.

"The staff of this unit, with several years' previous experience in our former temporary unit, handled the transition to this new area with its much more sophisticated equipment, in an exemplary manner," Peters said. Occupancy in the unit has averaged seven patients per day.

Larios' Building Committee then moved to remodel the former male-ward area into the present Office-Cardiac Consultation Area, with accompanying modifications to the X-Ray and Emergency Room Departments.

Work is still continuing of outfitting the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory, toward the equipping of which the hospital Auxiliary, under the leadership of Mrs. Marie Finkle, in May of 1970 made a pledge of $85,000. It is expected that this unit will be operational early this year.

During 1970 the Hospital issued its first Annual Report on its past year's activities and held its first Annual Employees Awards Dinner, honoring 123 employees who had served for five or more years with the Hospital.

Peters reported that discussions on possible cooperative ventures have begun between the Hospital and the Benedictine Hospital. A Joint Hospital Committee, composed of members of both in February 1970. The Kingston Hospital is also cooperating with the Northern Dutchess Hospital in providing radiology assistance when required and the Hospital's computer section is presently performing certain accounting functions for Margaretville Hospital.

Peters said, "Our Ad Hoc Committee to implement the Albany Medical College Report is continuing the program initiated in the Fall of 1969 to revise the By-laws and Rules and Regulations of the Medical and Dental Staff."

Sincere thanks were given to the entire Medical Staff for their continuing outstanding performance in rendering medical care. Peters continued, "Our deepest appreciation also goes to Miss Pellegrino and her nursing staff for their year-round dedication to the service of the patients."

"As to Mr. Triulzi, and his two able assistants, Miss Finger and Mr. Pitcock, who form the management team responsible for the daily operation of the Hospital, they continue to have our complete respect and appreciation for another good year's work completed," Peters said.

State Telephone Workers Start Returning to Posts

By United Press International
Thousands of telephone company employees across upstate New York, off the job in sympathy with striking co-workers in New York City, began returning to work today.

The return to work call was issued in New York City Sunday. An estimated 50,000 members of 23 separate locals of the Communications Workers of America were involved in the strike.

The walkout was triggered by a dispute between CWA Local 1101 and the New York Telephone Co., over out-of-towners and linemen. Howard Banker, Local 1101 president, told his members the out-of-towners would not be allowed on the job until the arbitrator has reached a decision in the case.

Local 1101, Banker and the CWA were assessed fines totaling more than $1.5 million for continuing the walkout in violation of court orders.

Although service to customers was not curtailed during the two weeks ago to back demands strike, installation of new equipment that its members be given ment and repair of existing facilities were affected.

Orange Fireman Arrested on Arson Charge

GOSHEN, N.Y. (UPI)—Michael Buckman, 18, an ex-Marine and a fireman, was arrested Sunday on an arson charge in connection with fires which resulted in $100,000 damage in this Orange County area.

Buckman was arraigned on the charge and released in the custody of his father, John L. Buckman, former village police justice.

The teen-ager, who was discharged honorably from the Marines after only a few months' service, was charged with setting a fire which did $50,000 damage to Conklin-Cummings lumber yard Nov. 30, a fourth fire.

second blaze at the Kitchen-Made plant and a fire in a large barn.

Village police, who shared in the investigation with the fire department and state police, said Buckman was arrested as he was attempting to start a

Scout Klondike - Fun, Work

PORT EWEN
Participants in the weekend Klondike Derby of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts at Aero Lake, Port Ewen simulated the rescue of a scout with a broken leg, and it was fun, work and competitive.

More than 350 Boy Scouts and 140 adult leaders of the council attended the annual event held at Aero Lake Airport, Port Ewen. The scouts worked in patrols, pulling a 50-pound sled across the snow and pitting their skills against various scouting problems set in their way.

When all had completed their simulated mercy mission, the Husky Patrol of Troop 100, Palenville was judged the winner by compiling the highest score of the day. The Raven Patrol of Troop 11, Kingston was second and Eagle Patrol of Troop 34, Woodstock closed in third. The Council is comprised of Greene and Ulster County troops.

The derby is quite similar in some respects to a dog sled race, except that the boys provide the pull power instead of huskies.

Each team is composed of from four to eight scouts and the team must pull the sled over a designated course. The sled is loaded down with certain required supplies.

The course includes six "towns" and at each location the scouts encounter a different scouting problem.

Scoring also included elapsed time for the run.

Other scouting events scheduled in the future include Project SOAR, the 1971 National Conservation Good Turn of the council, which will provide the opportunity for scout units to qualify for special awards.

Project Chairman Theodore Brooks announced the coming event for the awards that may be earned by the 120 Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops and Explorer Posts in the two-county area. Project SOAR stands for Save Our American Resources.

The Conservation Good Turn will begin with unit kickoff activities in February during the 61st anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

Hyde Park, Beacon HRVC Okays Dutchess Projects

TARRYTOWN
The Hudson River Valley Commission has found "no unreasonable impairment" in two development proposals in Dutchess County.

The action means that the projects, located in Hyde Park and Beacon, can proceed without further review or a public hearing by the State agency.

The Hyde Park project is a 216-unit apartment complex on Route 9. Sponsored by Cables and Wilson Construction Corp., it will consist of 16 buildings of two and three stories.

The 20-acre site is in a largely unbuild area north of the Vanderbilt Mansion. The Commission noted that the project will set a precedent for apartment development in a part of the Town that is now without public water or sewers.

The Commission said that the lack of these public services is a problem that the Town will have to deal with if, as seems likely, nearby vacant land is developed to a similar density.

The Beacon project will consist of two adjacent factory buildings on lower Main Street. The $300,000 development, sponsored by the Beacon Sea Jay Corp., is located in the Beacon Urban Renewal Area.

Dog License Deadline Set Feb. 1 in New Paltz

NEW PALTZ
The deadline for securing dog licenses before summonses are issued to delinquent dog owners is Feb. 1.

New Paltz Town Clerk Theodore E. Lasher said that the law requires all dogs either running at large or six months or older should be licensed by Jan. 1.

Unless the dog is licensed by Feb. 1, a summons will be issued for appearance in court and a penalty of $10 plus fees can be imposed, Lasher said.

Licenses may be secured at the town clerk's office, 60 Jansen Road. The summons is issued by the State Department of Agriculture and Markets as soon as the list of delinquent dog owners is filed with them by the town clerk.

Provide $50 for your future, and preserve the past for just $2.50 more.

Now, you can own the Kingston Savings Bank Historical Collection of four John Pike watercolors for just $2.50, when you add $50 to your present KSB account, or open an account with $50 or more.

These four scenes of our area — The Senate House, Rondout Creek, Overlook Mountain, and Perrines Bridge — are beautifully reproduced in full color, and preserved in plastic, so you can use them as placemats, or frame them.

Mr. Pike, world-renowned Woodstock artist, created these watercolors exclusively for Kingston Savings Bank. You can't buy them anywhere else. But if you could, you'd probably pay more than $2.50 for any one of them.

This is your opportunity to get all four, for less than 63¢ each. The offer probably won't be repeated, and ends when the supply is gone. So come to either office of Kingston Savings Bank with $52.50. You'll earn interest on $50, and get quite a bargain for the remaining $2.50.

Debate Set for Woman's Club of Saugerties Meeting

MRS. NATALIE DALEY, left, a social studies teacher, will act as moderator for eight Saugerties High School students when they debate an aspect of the international issue of Communism at the January 28th meeting of Woman's Club of Saugerties. Shown here consulting with Mrs. Daley on the details of the meeting is Mrs. James Mills, member of the Woman's Club. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

The regular meeting of the Woman's Club of Saugerties will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Dutch Arms Chapel. Mrs. James Mills, International Affairs Department chairman, has arranged for a debate of international flavor for the evening's program. Eight students from Saugerties High School will debate the issue of Communism as a threat to the American way of life. Members of the "pro" team are Thomas Cole, Walter Wagon, Joanne Winnie and Walter Schaap; the "con" team includes Carleton Ferrero, Peter Hoekstra, Croy "Mac" Brown, and Eloise Cutler. Moderator will be Mrs. Natalie Daley of the Social Studies Department of the High School.

PETER HOEKSTRA is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerben Hoekstra. Peter is an alternate for a Regents Scholarship, a member of the National Honor Society, participates in the Senior Seminar, has worked in student government, and the school choir. He maintains an interest in Social Science although he plans to become an engineer. Son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brown, CROY "MAC" BROWN has not decided definitely on the field of his future study, but he also has an interest in the Social Sciences.

THOMAS COLE is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cole. A Regents Scholarship winner, Thomas recently received the Young American Award. He is also a member of the school orchestra, and participates in cross-country.

CARLETON FERRERO holds the top score in Ulster County in the Regents Scholarship Examination. A National Merit Scholarship winner, Carleton has been active in student government, the student newspaper, intramurals, school orchestra, and the tennis team. President of Student Government, he plans to study journalism. Carleton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Ferrero.

ELOISE CUTLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cutler, plans to study radiologic technology at the Albany Medical Center. A National Merit Scholarship winner, Eloise was among the top four Ulster County Regents Scholarship winners as well. She attends Senior Seminar and is a member of the National Honor Society.

Son of Mr. Alexander Schaap, WALTER SCHAAP plans a nursing career. The Regents Scholarship winner is active in track and the French Club.

JOANNE WINNIE is the daughter of Girard Winnie, and plans a career in interior design. She is active in Ski Club, and is a member of the literary staff of the Sawyer Yearbook. Joanne enjoys Art Club and has a role in the Senior Play.

WALTER WAGON is a Regents Scholarship winner and is active in student government. He attends Senior Seminar and is a member of the National Honor Society. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wagon, Walter plans to attend college and is considering the ministry as a life goal.

Moderator Mrs. Natalie Daley is a graduate of Smith College, North Hampton, Mass. She received her Master's degree from the State University of New York at Albany, where she has also done advanced graduate work. Mrs. Daley holds memberships in the New York State Council for the Social Studies, the New York State Council for the Humanities, the New York State Teachers Association, and the Saugerties Teachers Association. She teaches American studies and Humanities at Saugerties High School.

A business meeting and refreshments will follow the debate. Mrs. Mills extends a cordial invitation to interested members of the community to attend. All members are reminded that January 28 is the deadline for purchases of Valentine Dinner-Dance tickets.

Desires to Stay in States

Miss Abhaya Mane, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Mane of Kingston, will have to leave this country next month and return to India, unless she receives either admission for a course in dietetics or a position here. So far she has not been able to get either of these in this country.

Miss Mane came to this country on a student visa which expires the end of this month. She is 22 years old and will be graduated in a few weeks from University College at Plattsburg with a Master's degree in Home Economics Education. She did her undergraduate work in her special field in India before coming to this country in the fall of 1969.

While a student in India, she developed a keen interest in the activities of youth under the church's direction. She participated in games and athletics, and as part of her study program, often visited the home of village families to give instruction in child care and family planning. She explained to village mothers the nutritional value of various items of Indian agricultural produce. As a member of the 4-H, she did valuable work in towns as well as villages.

However, Miss Mane did not allow all these extracurricular activities to interfere with her studies. She always maintained a high grade and was popular both with her teachers and her fellow students, and was awarded medals for efficiency in studies as well as in youth leadership as an all-round best student.

At the present time, Miss Mane's complete family has left India. Her parents and one sister are residing in Kingston and her eldest sister lives in Tokyo, Japan. There remains only a few more days of her visa and Miss Mane hopes for either additional studies or a position which will assure her stay in this country.

Lefooters Square Dance Club to Hold Dance Tonight

Lefooters Western Style Square Dance Club will enjoy a new first this year, a combined square dance, when club members join the Monday night workshop members this evening at Hurley Reformed Church hall for the merging of old and new dancers. Prior to this year, the club had invited the workshop to join at the regular Friday night dance for this first merging.

Don Blair, club caller-teacher, will smooth the way for a pleasant evening. The seasoned club dancer anticipates introducing new dancers to the fun and friendliness of club dancing, while the novice usually faces the merging with good humored fear.

Other highlights include the Country Shoppe in the basement for those who wish to purchase western square dance apparel, refreshments, and a fashion show. The fashion show will be unique in that it is composed of only homesewn items of square dance clothes for men and women. The square dance girls modeling in the show hope to encourage the workshop members to join in the creative fun of sewing dresses, skirts, capes, vests, ties.

The Lefooters was founded seven years ago in Saugerties by Don and Mary Arthur who have since moved from this area. The club's eighth workshop began in September, 1970 and will be graduated in March. Square dancing provides healthy exercise as well as offering an opportunity to meet congenial people of all ages from all walks of life. Members enjoy sharing their fun with new people and invite interested clubs or social groups to contact club chairman Bill Margopoulos, for a demonstration of Western Style Square Dancing and Round Dancing.

Borrowing Trouble

Dear Margaret Brookfield: My younger brother, who's employed by a big accounting firm, has been "borrowing" money from his company to pay off some gambling debts. He refers to this as a "temporary loan" and says his company won't miss the money for a while. Even if he returns it—as he says he will—I still think he's committing a crime. He says he isn't. What do you think?

H. T., Easton, Mass.

Dear H. T.: Some people, who wouldn't dream of stealing from another person, seem to think it's perfectly all right when a large corporation is involved. It isn't, of course. Although your kid brother is trying to make embezzling sound like good clean fun, the only person he's kidding is himself. And he may find himself put behind bars if he doesn't straighten things out right away.

Fighting the Blues

Dear Margaret Brookfield: My wife, who is 52, has been sitting around the house lately moping a lot, neglecting herself and her housework more and more. In her younger days she had enough get-up-and-go for two people. Now she hardly answers me when I talk to her. What makes her behave this way?

F. B., Brighton, Ohio

Dear F. B.: People are generally more depressed in winter than in summer because they spend more time indoors and have less physical activity. This is known as the "winter blues." But in some situations the physical and psychological causes of the blues may go much deeper. Since your wife is at an age where her body chemistry and her hormonal level have been changing, you might get her to a doctor for a complete physical checkup.

He can best determine whether the reasons in her case are physical and whether hormone replacement therapy or another form of treatment is indicated. The important thing is to see that she gets some kind of help soon. Doctors say the more severe the depression, the more difficult it may be to snap back. So have your wife get that checkup without delay.

Public Speaking

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I've been asked to give a talk at our women's club and am nervous about it. I've never done any public speaking before. Are there any pointers you can suggest? I may speak on any subject I wish.

N. N., Tacoma, Wash.

Dear N. N.: Choose a subject you know something about, are interested in, and on which you can speak with warmth and ease. Don't write out and memorize your speech. Instead, prepare an outline for it by setting down the points you wish to make in an orderly fashion. Transfer this outline to 3-by-5-inch cards. (You can glance at them quickly if you find yourself temporarily speechless.) Pick out a friendly face from the audience and talk to that person, or look for people you know. They're sure to respond with expressions of interest and encouragement. Also, speak up loud and clear, so people won't have to strain to hear you. Last but not least, enjoy yourself. If you do, your audience will too.

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help, write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N. Y. 10019.

Returns Punts 82-56 Yards

Mel Renfro Guilty This Time

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mel Renfro of the Dallas Cowboys, the focal point of a controversial tipped pass in the Super Bowl, came to the Pro Bowl as an unhappy man, proclaiming his innocence. But he left today a happy man, admitting his guilt.

The strange transformation took place in the Pro Bowl Sunday when Renfro returned two punts 82 and 56 yards for touchdowns in the fourth quarter while leading the National Conference All-Stars to a convincing 27-6 triumph over their American Conference colleagues.

For a crowd of 48,222 it was exciting. For the NFC it staked another claim to superiority over the AFC. And for Renfro it lessened the pain of the Super Bowl defeat seven days earlier. "It takes some of the bite out of that," Renfro said afterward. "I was real upset when I got here. I felt real bad about losing. It was sad coming off the Super Bowl loss. I didn't say much all week. I just stood around."

While he was standing around, still thinking about the pass that led to Baltimore's first touchdown in the Super Bowl and contributed to their victory over the Cowboys, Renfro had an opportunity to look at films of the controversial play.

And he admitted he tipped the pass, making it a legal play. "I didn't think I touched it," he explained. "But I saw the films, and the ball changed direction, so I must have touched it."

In the Pro Bowl, whenever he touched something, it produced points for his team, beginning in the third period. The NFC led only 10-3 at that point with a 23-yard pass by San Francisco's John Brodie to Dave Osborne of Minnesota the only touchdown in the game. Then Renfro tipped a pass by Oakland's Daryle Lamonic, Fred Carr of Green Bay intercepted and the NFC built its lead to 13-3 on a field goal by Minnesota's Fred Cox. Jan Stenerud of Kansas City got that back for the AFC just moments later when Cecil Turner of Chicago fumbled a punt—but that fumble was the turning point.

Until then, Turner and Renfro had been aligned side by side on punt returns. But when they came off the field after the fumble, Coach Dick Nolan called the two returners aside. "After the problem Dick told me to get back and field everything I could while Cecil fielded the short ones," Renfro revealed.

The strategic change enabled Renfro to field the two punts in the fourth quarter—and break the game open. But while it was Renfro's returns that furnished the finishing flourish, the NFC statistically, at least, clearly established its superiority in the first test of strength between the all-stars of the two conferences.

Over-all, the NFC gained 337 yards to 146 for the AFC. 112 yards to 66 rushing and 225 to 80 passing.

Brodie totally obscured his AFC counterpart, completing 10 of 26 passes for 156 yards. Lamonic hit on only four of 21. Osborne, who caught the lone touchdown pass of the game, grabbed four passes in all for 58 yards and was the leading ground gainer with 45 yards in 10 tries.

Defensively, the NFC front four, manned at different times by Deacon Jones of Los Angeles, Bob Lilly of Dallas, Claude Humphrey of Atlanta and Alan Page, Carl Eller and Gary Larsen of Minnesota, continually harassed Lamonic and his replacement, Miami's Bob Griese.

While neither NFC quarterback—Brodie and Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants—was dumped for a loss, the AFC passers were struck down five times.

But what the statistics showed—the AFC wasn't about to buy. "There's no conclusion about the conferences to be drawn from the game," said AFC Coach John Madden. "Neither team controlled the ball, and both defenses were hitting and tackling well. The score may look worse than the way the teams played."

"I wouldn't think this game showed the NFC was ahead of the AFC," said Oakland center Jim Otto. "and I wouldn't think a game like this can be the true test of the two conferences. It's more difficult to get fired up for a game like this than a regular game."

But Otto did admit that the first AFC-NFC Pro Bowl was far more than an exhibition game in which the game's greatest stars paraded their individual talents. "There was rivalry out there," he pointed out. "You could feel it. But they seemed more together and more fired up than we were."

Quirk of Weather Helps

Italians Sweep Bobsled Titles

CERVINIA, Italy (UPI)—Although the home course gave them the first day advantage, it was a quirk of weather which secured Italy's two-man bobsled team a clean sweep of the world championships.

The Italy No. 1 team of Gianfranco Gaspari and Mario Armano captured the world title on the basis of their first two heat times Saturday when officials suspended the last two runs Sunday because a sudden snowstorm dumped knee-deep drifts on the killer Lago Blue course.

The Italy No. 2 duo of Enzo Vicario and Corrado Dal Fabbro were awarded second place and the Austria No. 1 team of Herber Gruber and Mario Armano took third on the basis of Saturday's times.

Wind-whipped snow flurries halted the third heat runs after two crackups and one further withdrawal on the second day of the two-man world championships. After an hour's deliberation, judges canceled the rest of the heats and posted the standings after Saturday's first two heats as the final results.

Italian organizers, anticipating certain controversy over the decision since it gave the world title and second place to Italian teams, issued a statement that they asked the judges to postpone the last two heats until Monday but the judges refused.

In the official announcement, the judges said the decision was "wise in respect to the regulations to permit the carrying out of training and heats of the four-man bobsled competition." The four-man bobsled training had been scheduled to begin today.

The abrupt cancellation of the last two heats brought unofficial protests from the German, Austrian and Swiss teams, all of whom were within a second and a half of the Italians, going into the final day. The Germans had also voiced some complaints that the course had been used for the Italian national championships, giving the Italian teams the advantage of familiarity with it.

The killer Lago Blue course took the life of Spanish team captain Luis Lopez last Thursday in a trial run and nearly claimed another victim when the American No. 1 team of Gary Sheffield and Phillip Dupree skirted the top of the last curve for a scary moment in the first heat Saturday. Sheffield withdrew after the near accident.

The only serious contender to make one of the nine third heat runs Sunday was the Swiss No. 2 team of Christian Candrian and Peter Scharer, who wound up in fifth place. They posted 1:11.32 time in their canceled run.

The German No. 1 team of Werner Zimmerer and Peter Utzschneider came in, fourth on the basis of the first two heat times and had been scheduled next down the course before the sudden snowstorm.

The American No. 2 team of Wade Whitney and Danny Fay wound up 12th in the final standings. They, too, made one third heat run and posted a time of 1:13.17.

How to Beat Birds?

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bill Rigney, Minnesota Twins manager, is spending the winter thinking up ways to beat the Baltimore Orioles.

"Any one of my Twins who will be fined $50," Rigney said. The Orioles, behind third baseman Robinson, swept the Twins three straight in the 1970 American League playoffs and won the World Series over Cincinnati.

Blinkers Help Lion Sleeps In Victory Streak

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Trainer John Zarthar put blinkers on Lion Sleeps last Dec. 1, and the 5-year-old gelding hasn't seen anything but the winner's circle since.

Lion Sleeps, owned by Celestino DiLibero and ridden by Bill Hartack led from the start Saturday in winning the $32,150 Royal Palm Handicap at Hialeah for his sixth straight victory, the last four in stakes, since being fitted with blinkers. There was doubt Lion Sleeps would be able to carry high weight of 127 pounds over seven furlongs—the other victories in the string were at six furlongs—but he did it tenaciously for a nose victory over Thomas and James Grissom's Spotted Line, 114, with C.V. Whitney's favored True North, 112, third.

Another winning streak was extended when Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Rum gained his fifth straight by scoring by a nose over Tri-Colour Stable's Jig Dancer in the $28,350 Pimlico Stakes for five-year-olds at Pimlico.

Eric Walsh sent Rum, $4.60, over the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 under 119 pounds, three more than Jig Dancer and nine more than third-place Cocky Raider. In the richest race of the weekend, the $43,100 San Marco Handicap over 1 1/4 miles on the turf at Santa Anita, Bill Shoemaker guided Mary f. Jones Chilean-bred Cougar II to an easy victory.

Cougar II, high-weighted at 124 pounds, was six lengths to the good of Sigmund Sommer's Staunch Eagle, 115. Beelu Farm's and Fendall M. Lagett's At Arms Length won her first stakes by scoring 1 1/4 lengths over Mrs. Helen D. Vizzi's Our Cheri Armour in the $32,650 Heirloom Handicap for 3-year-old fillies at Liberty Bell.

In other national features, Assumption, $6.20, won the $15,000 Black Gold Handicap at the New Orleans Fair Grounds 8 Sedos, $10.80, and Mr. Kippers, $4.80, took the split divisions of the Lincoln Downs feature.

Augert Leads In World Cup

(UPI) — Jean Noel Augert of France took a lead in the World Cup slalom Saturday that he is the master of the slalom.

Augert, the world slalom champion, gained the lead in the World Cup standings by capturing the International Hahnenkamm slalom in a near flawless 108.17 seconds over two rain-soaked tracks.

The blond Frenchman whipped through the 149 gates to defeat teammate Alain Penz and Austria's Harald Rofner for his second slalom victory within 24 hours. On Saturday he also won a slalom race which did not count toward the World Cup standings. Penz was clocked in 108.51 and Rofner in 109.04.

"I had two perfect runs, but it was a tough job on this hard track," said Augert. "The rain certainly did not improve track conditions. I would not call the conditions irregular, but they were certainly not too good."

The track used for the Hahnenkamm Slalom had to be reinforced by snow cement between the two heats as heavy rain soaked the terrain. An unprecedented snow shortage forced organizers to cancel the downhill run which usually opens the two-day Hahnenkamm event.

By winning Sunday's slalom, Augert moved ahead of Italy's Gustav Thoeni in the race for the World Cup. Thoeni was leading Augert after the first run Sunday but crashed in the second heat.

America's top slalom skier, Tyler Palmer of Kearsarge, N.H., hit a flagpole in the first run to spoil his chances.

Other non-finishers included France's Patrick Russell, runner-up in Saturday's slalom race; Austria's Heini Messner and Switzerland's Walter Tresch and Edmund Bruggmann. Austria's Karl Schranz, the defending World Cup champion, did not compete because of an injury.

Ryun Sans Records Is Enjoying It More

By United Press International

Jim Ryun is leaving the records to other trackmen these days but he seems to be enjoying the sport more now.

Ryun was overshadowed on a busy indoor track weekend by a pair of world record marks but the former Kansas star was pleased by a relaxed 4:04.4 mile Friday night in his first appearance in 19 months at the All-American Games in San Francisco.

The star of that meet was Al Feuerbach, who stunned Randy Matson and set a world indoor mark in the shot put with a heave of 68 feet, 11 inches.

In the NAIA meet in Kansas City, Jean-Louis Ravelomanantsoa won the 60-yard dash Saturday night with a 6.0 clocking after matching the world mark of 5.9 in Friday night's semi-finals.

In the fourth annual Philadelphia Track Classic, Mel Pender won the 50-yard dash with a 5.3 clocking as Dr. Delano Meriwether slumped to fifth. Dr. Meriwether, who ignored track during his pre-med days at Michigan State and only started working out on his own last summer, stunned the track world two weeks ago with a dash victory at Maryland.

But despite all the other action, the weekend clearly belonged to Ryun, who made his long-awaited return to competitive track. Bothered by the constant pressure of always being expected to win—and often in record time—Ryun quit abruptly 19 months ago and "retired" to become a photographer in Topeka, Kan.

The long payoff has given him a chance to relax and build up his competitive urge again and now he's aiming at the 1972 Olympics. But he's doing it slowly and, as a husband and father, he seems to be much more mature and self-confident now.

"I was very pleased with my performance," Ryun said after his mile even though his own world record is almost 13 seconds faster. He now plans to move to Eugene, Ore., where he will train under University of Oregon coach Bill Bowerman.

Against an ordinary field, Ryun won easily and he added, "I knew I had to see the pace out there and time passed quickly. There were about 4-12 laps to go before I had made a move but I'm satisfied with going that fast early in the season."

Matson suffered his first defeat since 1969 when Feuerbach, who claims he uses protein powder to build up his body, unleashed his record throw.

When asked if he'd given Feuerbach any pointers, Matson shrugged. "He certainly does," he said from me. "In the NAIA meet, Eastern Michigan captured its third straight team title with 66-3-4 points while Dallas Baptist finished second with 32 points."

Barber Survives Phoenix Shambles

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Put perfect golfing weather together with a friendly, flat and fairly short course and a bunch of hungry pros and you're going to have a lot of low scores.

That's what happened during the weekend at the Arizona Country Club where par was shattered repeatedly and most often by Miller Barber, an unusual Texan in that he is a taciturn chap who does not flap his mouth but concentrates on his game.

Barber, 39, who was only a few dollars short of $100,000 in earnings last year, ran away with the $25,000 first prize in the Phoenix Open with his 72-hole total of 261, 23 under par. His rounds were 65-64-67-65. Par is 35-36-71.

Two strokes back at the hectic finish were Masters champion Billy Casper and the Florida barrister Dan Sikes. Casper shot a final 62, nine WATERBURY, Conn. — The phase of Ulster County Community College Senators game that had left something to be desired earlier this season is beginning to come around with consistency now and it's just in time.

Field goal shooting, especially from the backcourtmen, was again sharp Saturday night as U-Tri-C came from behind in the second half to lower the boom on Post Junior College, 91-81.

"I think we're starting to move now," said Senator Coach Mike Perry, and if he's right that move will coincide with the return to Mid-Hudson Conference play this week.

Ulster is 11-7 overall and 2-2 in the league and to repeat as champs of the Mid-Hudson circuit the Senators must figure on winning each remaining game and then hope for some help from others in knocking off front running Dutchess.

UCC was red hot against Post but for the second successive time had to stage a rally to win. Final figures showed an impressive 62 per cent average from the floor for the Senators and 30 points for Glen Berry, yet with 10 minutes remaining the New Yorkers were down by 11 points.

Post, ahead by two at the half, led 61-50 by the mid-point of the second session and three minutes later the scorebook showed Berry and Gary McDonald with four personals.

Ulster, however, responded with 22 of the next 24 points to turn the game completely around and lead 71-63.

"The fast break did it," UCC's coach observed, noting that Berry and Pat Harder began to snatch rebounds and whip the ball upcourt to start the crisply moving attack.

The home team got off quickly, just as they did when the two teams first met in November. In that one, Post took a

New Paltz Frosh 2nd In Relay

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — An all freshmen mile relay team from New Paltz State took second in the Philadelphia Track Classic staged at Convention hall Saturday. The first team to break the tape was Lincoln University, Pa. The winners were timed in 3:34.8. New Paltz' time was 3:35.2.

New Paltz defeated teams from Franklin-Marshall, Ursinus and Queens.

Earl White and Kevin Davis, the three and four-spot runners, were largely responsible for the Hawks' second-place finish. When White took the baton from Mark Henderson, the New Paltz team was dead last. White came on to move the team to third. Davis then completed the 12-lap run and brought Coach Ed Bell's boys into second.

Barrington Bloomfield ran the first leg for New Paltz. "We were a little weak in the first two positions," said Bell. "However, the boys, White and Davis, really came on strong. We're running a very abbreviated schedule before we begin Spring workouts. We have applied for the Boston Athletic Club games Jan. 30th and the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden. We haven't heard from either one as yet," he concluded.

"It was really fascinating," he said. "I sure felt good."

7-0 lead at the outset but Ulster came back to lead by one at the half before pulling away and eventually triumphing, 84-62.

This time the Connecticut quintet matched the Senators fine floor effort and then some as it took 17 points by Berry to keep Post from putting Ulster in a big hole. Bob Lucas, Ed Matthews, Jim Welsh and Duncan Green were providing the losers with a formidable offense, all finishing in double figures.

But Berry, averaging just over 20 points per game going into the contest, matched the 30 he netted Wednesday at Marist while McDonald and Roger Govantes tallied 23 and 20 respectively. The combined scoring display was important as the opposition couldn't concentrate its defense on Berry alone as some UCC foes had been doing.

Lucas was high point producer for Post with 25, one better than the total he amassed the first time Ulster beat his team. UCC now returns to the Conference wars with Orange Community due into Kate Walton Field House Thursday at 8 p.m. Should the Senators stay in their current groove and should Dutchess lose some of its players for academic reasons as is expected, well....

Willis Reed All-Time Knick

By United Press International

There wasn't anything wrong with the New York Knickerbockers that a healthy Willis Reed couldn't cure.

Reed, the league's most valuable player a year ago, returned to his old form over the weekend and helped the Knicks break a slump with a pair of important victories. On Saturday night the 6-foot-9 center poured in 30 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as the Knicks routed the Boston Celtics, 128-107, and Sunday he collected 24 points to spark New York to a 117-105 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

In the process Reed became the highest scorer in Knicks' history.

Reed, who was sidelined for a few games a couple of weeks ago with the flu, was slow to recover and during his convalescing period the Knicks dropped six of eight games and had watched their lead in the National Basketball Association's East Division dwindle to three and one-half games.

"It sure feels good to get going again," said Reed after Sunday's effort pushed him past Carl Braun and into first place on the Knicks' all-time scoring list with 10,511 points.

"A lot of people have been thinking that I'm washed up," Reed got scoring support from Bill Bradley with 22 points and Mike Riordan with 19 as the Knicks snapped a five-game losing streak on the road with a victory at Detroit. Dave Bing paced the Pistons with 26 points.

In other Sunday action, Milwaukee routed Atlanta, 142-120; Los Angeles topped Cincinnati, 142-131; Philadelphia crushed Seattle, 145-119; Boston beat Cleveland, 121-100; Phoenix defeated Chicago, 113-112; and Buffalo whipped Portland, 123-111.

Bob Dandridge connected on 15 of 20 shots from the floor and scored 33 points to spark the Bucks to their 41st victory in 49 games. Oscar Robertson chipped in with 29 points and 15 assists while Pete Maravich led the Hawks with 30 points.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 35 points and collected 29 rebounds to pace the Lakers' victory. Jerry West supported Chamberlain with 32 points and Happy Hairston and Keith Erickson chipped in with 28 and 25 points respectively. Tom Van Arsdale led Cincinnati with 25 points.

Billy Cunningham scored 33 points and Archie Clark added 32 as Philadelphia kept pace with the Knicks by trimming Seattle. The 76ers remain four games behind the Knicks in the East Division. Spencer Haywood led the Supersonics with 30 points.

John Havlicek collected 36 points and Jo Jo White added 28 as the Celtics handed the Cavaliers their 47th loss in 54 games. Johnny Johnson topped Cleveland with 29 points.

The Suns rallied from 11 points down in the last nine and one-half minutes to nip Chicago. Phoenix moved ahead to stay with 1:31 left as they overcame a 34-point effort by Chicago's Bob Love. Mel Counts and Paul Silas paced the Suns with 18 points each.

Bob Kauffman's 30 points paced Buffalo to its third straight victory. Geoff Petrie topped Portland with 28 points.

In the American Basketball Association, it was Denver 119, Kentucky 116; Pittsburgh 118, Carolina 101; Memphis 112, Floridians 106 in overtime; New York 108, Utah 107 also in overtime and Virginia 130, Indiana 128.

Rangers and Bruins In Power Struggle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While the Boston Bruins and New York Rangers continue their struggle for first place in the National Hockey League East, quite a battle is shaping up at the other end of the division.

After Sunday's action in which Detroit trounced Vancouver 7-3 and Buffalo downed Philadelphia 6-4, the Canucks lead the Red Wings by one point and the Sabres by three. Unfortunately, all three also are well behind Toronto in the race for the fourth and last playoff spot.

In other action, Boston defeated Montreal 4-2, New York whipped Minnesota 6-2 and Chicago topped California 5-3.

Bobby Orr scored his 20th goal on a spectacular effort and assisted on two other to help the Bruins beat the Canadiens and maintain their three-point edge over New York.

Phil Esposito, the NHL scoring leader, got the Bruins rolling with his 44th goal in 46 games just 1:42 into the first period. Fred Stanfield snapped a 1-1 deadlock in the second period and Ken Hodge and Orr wrapped it up in the final 20 minutes. Yvan Cournoyer and Jean Beliveau tallied for the Canadiens.

The Rangers kept pace as Dave Balon whipped four goals past Gilles Gilbert in the Minnesota nets and raised his season total to 29, second best in the NHL.

The Red Wings blasted home five goals within a seven-minute stretch of the third period to overwhelm Vancouver. Two consecutive goals by Rene Leclerc, Tom Webster's second goal of the game and markers by Gordie Howe and Bruce MacGregor shot Detroit from a 3-2 deficit.

Howe, whose goal was his 15th, assisted on two earlier goals, giving him 1,100 points in his 25-year career.

Donnie Marshall's two goals triggered a four-goal outburst in the second period that paced Buffalo over Philadelphia. Jerry Meehan and Steve Atkinson got the Sabres' first two goals and Eddie Shack and Gil Perreault notched the last two. It was the 20th for rookie Perreault.

Chicago's Hull brothers, Bobby and Dennis, scored two goals apiece to lead the Black Hawks past California.

In Saturday night's games, it was Boston 6, Chicago 2; Montreal 6, Detroit 2; Los Angeles 3, Toronto 1; Pittsburgh 4, Vancouver 1; St. Louis 7, Buffalo 1 and Philadelphia 2, Minnesota 2.

Will Execute 58 For Guinea Invasion

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Guinea is going to execute 58 persons convicted of taking part in the invasion of the west African nation last November. Another 66 were sentenced to life in prison, including a Roman Catholic archbishop.

Guinean President Sekou Toure had charged the invasion was led by Portuguese mercenaries, but there was no indication that any Portuguese were among those sentenced.

The sentences were announced Sunday in Conakry during a rally in the Conakry football stadium. Radio Conakry broadcast the proceedings.

The sentences were given by the National Assembly, sitting as a "supreme revolutionary court."

The broadcast said Msgr. Raymond-Marie Tchidimbo, the Catholic archbishop of Conakry, was sentenced to life at hard labor.

Among others receiving life terms was a West German citizen, Adolf Marx. Another West German, Herman Siebold, who Guinean authorities said committed suicide in his cell, was given a life sentence posthumously.

The names of those sentenced to death were not given, but most of those on trial were Guinean exiles and Guineans taken prisoner at the time of the invasion. The radio said 33 additional death sentences in absentia were pronounced.

President Toure said that he will extend no clemency. It was believed that those condemned to death would be executed publicly in the country's various regions.

Toure charged that the invaders came from Portuguese Guinea, that the Portuguese Navy transported them and that they were led by mercenaries employed by Portugal. Toure's charges were supported Dec. 8 by a U.N. Security Council resolution based on the findings of a U.N. mission. Portugal denied the charge.

Archbishop Tchidimbo is the second Catholic prelate convicted of antigovernment plotting in Africa. Bishop Albert Ndongo of Cameroon was sentenced to death earlier this month on charges he conspired to kill the country's president. The sentence was commuted after the Pope and several Western governments appealed for clemency.

Another clergyman, the Anglican dean of Johannesburg, is under arrest in South Africa and will be tried on charges involving "subversive activities," the security police chief in Johannesburg said today. The government has made public no details of the accusations against Dean Gonville-French Beytagh, but there is speculation that they stem from his handling of funds sent from abroad for the families of political detainees.

Truman Still in Hospital, Placed on Liquid Diet

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman has been placed on "special liquid diet." But doctors at Research Hospital said this was only to prepare him for some tests early today.

The liquid diet substituted for Truman's Sunday night meal, according to a hospital spokesman.

The 86-year-old former president is suffering from inflammation of the large intestine. Doctors describe his condition as "fair."

His wife, Bess, 85, left the hospital Sunday evening to spend the night in the family home in Independence, Mo. She was expected back at the hospital early today.

The medical bulletin released by the hospital Sunday night said Truman "was placed on a special liquid diet for his Sunday evening meal in preparation for lower gastro-intestinal tests" today.

"He feels much stronger," the statement said.

The hospital spokesman said Sunday was "a quiet day" for Truman.

In the morning he "drank some buttermilk and read the newspaper. For lunch he had some chicken, jello, tomato soup and milk."

He got out of bed twice Sunday and during the afternoon "he dozed and chatted with Mrs. Truman," the spokesman said.

Truman's personal physician, Dr. Wallace H. Graham, said Truman's condition was listed as "fair" because of "results of the tests available at present, lack of appetite and a restless night."

His condition was listed as "good" from the time he was admitted to the hospital Thursday until Graham's statement Sunday.

Set Issue On MacArthur Postage Stamp

WEST POINT — For the past 80 years, the Post Office has been "stamping out" United States Military Academy graduates.

This Tuesday, Jan. 26, General Douglas MacArthur, former West Point superintendent and hero of two wars, will become the 11th USMA alumnus who has appeared as a portrait on U.S. stamps.

The first member of the "Long Gray Line" to be so honored was Ulysses S. Grant, who appeared on a 5-cent postage stamp in 1890.

He has been followed by such notables as Robert E. Lee, General George S. Patton Jr., General John J. "Black Jack" Pershing and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The first U.S. Grant stamp, incidentally, is now worth $6 in "mint" (uncanceled, perfect) condition. Others have values ranging from $.45 from a William T. Sherman 8-cent issued in 1893, to face value for more recent issues.

Among the graduates who have appeared on stamps are most of the commanding generals of the Civil War, plus leading figures in American military history since that time.

The new 6-cent MacArthur stamp will be issued with first-day ceremonies in Norfolk, Va., marking Gen. MacArthur's 91st birthday anniversary. He is buried in Norfolk, and a MacArthur Memorial Foundation has been established there.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may submit orders to the Postmaster, Norfolk, Va., 23501, plainly indicating the full name and address, including zip code, with remittance to cover the cost.

Orders must be postmarked no later than Jan. 26, 1971. The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers, 6-cent Gen. MacArthur Postage Stamp."

Showboat Title Won by Johnson

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Barry Asher, a 25-year-old pro from Canoga Park, Calif., led from the opening gun but Don Johnson of the bowling city of Akron, Ohio finished things resoundingly in the $77,777 Showboat Invitational bowling tournament.

Saturday's match play began with Asher leading and Johnson second and three others hoping to challenge. Johnson had jumped from fourth to second in Friday's semifinal play, during which he was tops among the 16 semifinalists in match play ringing up a score of 115.

That match-game experience paid off against Asher as Johnson rolled strikes in eight of his last nine frames, wound up with a 269 game and earned $11,111.11 for first place.

Asher who had averaged 235 per game for the first 40 games, finished the final-round match with six consecutive strikes and a 223, but he was far off and won $7,777.77 for second place.

Dear Abby

Money Gift for Child?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say cash or checks were inappropriate gifts for children, and you disagreed with her. I think she's right. Children don't appreciate money. They can't say, "Grandma gave me ice skates or pajamas, or a ring."

A little conference the child's mother in advance will make that special occasion more meaningful. It might even mean Mom does the buying and puts Grandma's name on the card. Nicer memories are made this way.

MRS. S.W.

DEAR ABBY: I have always felt that my children get sufficient gifts to unwrap, and I am delighted when they receive a gift of money. If handled properly, money can be far more valuable than any other gift, for it presents an ideal opportunity to teach children the value of money.

Our daughters are 7 and 8. They have been taught to write their own deposit slips and to bank their own money. They talk about "saving" for college, or buying a car some day. On occasion they have been permitted to draw out their own money to buy something they really wanted.

To concentrate on how many gifts a child has to unwrap, I think produces a spoiled, materialistic child.

CYNTHIA: NAUGATUCK

DEAR ABBY: On behalf of many, many kids, I am writing this letter to "DISGUSTED WITH CASH."

There are lots of kids (including me) who do their own Christmas shopping. I am 11. Every year my grandmother sends me a check for Christmas. And she sends it early so I can use it to shop for Christmas gifts for my family. I am more than happy with this kind of a present.

So to all grandparents, a big thanks, and keep those checks coming.

OVERJOYED IN GLENDORA

DEAR ABBY: I will never give a child cash or a check for a special occasion, such as birthday or Christmas. My reason:

When I was a lad my mother used to tell me to write a nice letter to Grandma and Grandpa, thanking them for the "nice check"—and I, of course, would do it.

I never saw the check. My mother used it to buy something for the house, or for herself or Dad. All I know is I never got anything from the checks my grandparents used to send me.

GRANDPA

DEAR ABBY: Just finished reading the letter signed "DISGUSTED WITH CASH," and thought your answer was a good one.

We have eight grandchildren and they all live thousands of miles from us. We never know what size the children are. We ask, but the parents either forget to tell us, or they say:

"Oh Johnny is big for his age," and "Lucy is much taller than her sister was at her age!" Sometimes when we send gifts, they send them back (wrong size, Nancy can't wear that color or Patty already has one). Put me down as one grandparent who sends a check. I've never had one returned, either.

ALL FOR CASH IN NORTH DAKOTA

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Aggers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 63700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, January 26

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

Wind up whatever has been left undone early in the day of this new moon so that you will be able tonight to think out an unusual and progressive course of action for really making headway in the future. Take some extra health precautions so you do not get tired out today.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look to your good friends for the answers you want in important matters now. Evening is the best time for any personal goals you may have. Getting the right results will be easy then.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you complete unfinished tasks first, you can then have success in new interests. Don't mind the grumpiness of some higher-up, but carry through with promises. Show you have ability.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have certain problems that need a new approach for solution. After they are out of the way you can then advance as you either wish or should. Making new contacts in p.m. is easy. They comprehend your aims.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get yourself composed and you find you can meet all those responsibilities quickly and well. Then start some fascinating new activity. Follow your hunches if you want to make this a great day.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find the right system for getting along better with your dynamic associate and gain more backing from him. Talk over at length, if required, just where you are headed. Take it easy tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take care of that work ahead of you in a swift and efficient manner. Show higher-ups that you are loyal. Add new accessories to wardrobe that tone it up considerably, but give sufficient thought to their selection.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Complete plans for some recreational activity. Tonight change conditions about you so that they are more to your liking. Get your finest talents before a bigwig who can assist you in expressing them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Planning how to get in to comprehend what you desire of them and then tactfully going about gaining their cooperation is fine. Rid yourself of whatever destroys family concord. A social evening at home is wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Doing errands and regular duties early saves you time for more interesting things in the evening. Make those arrangements that improve on the past and brighten the future. Avoid extravagances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get your bills paid, make the collections that are important during a.m. and then plan how to have greater abundance in the p.m. A business expert gives ideas that need further study. Don't jump blindly into anything.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Day hours are fine for improving your appearance and health and finishing duties of long standing. Evening ideal for beginning some new project. Stress the personal instead of the business now. Fine results possible.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look into any dull routines today and get them behind you during the day so evening is clear for planning new endeavors. Private worries need to be rid of before success comes. Show that you have savoir faire.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who wants to meet all kinds of individuals at times, then wants to be alone and act in a secretive way at other times. It would be well for your progeny to coordinate the life a little better and be as outgoing with others as they are with him or her. Ideal chart for travel in foreign countries, earning a living there, either in diplomatic or importing, exporting fields, etc. Languages are a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Richter's Individual Forecast for your sign for February is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Richter Forecast, The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028. (© 1971, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Vital Highway 4 Open

Phnom Penh Again Linked to Sea

CAMBODIAN CLEANUP — Although there is a war going on these women are not going to let their hair go too long without a cleaning. They are female Cambodian soldiers who were taking part in the recently completed clearing operations on Highway 4. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—South Vietnamese and American forces ended their operation along Cambodia's vital Highway 4 linking Phnom Penh to the sea today, declared the road open and withdrew their forces, military spokesmen said.

Phnom Penh, a city unnerved by three nights of terrorist attacks, was in a state of full alert, with fighting continuing in the surrounding countryside. Communist troops fired a pair of 122mm Soviet-built rockets at Pochenton Airport, blasted by the Communists Friday. The missiles fell short and wounded two villagers.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese announced they had completed repairs on two bridges south of the Pich Nil Pass on Highway 4 and the road was open. They turned over security to the Cambodians at 7 a.m. and almost immediately the 5,300 South Vietnamese troops were pulled out of the area.

The spokesman said 1,500 Marines returned to their permanent base inside Cambodia at the Mekong River ferry town of Neak Luong, 35 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, and 3,800 rangers and armored cavalrymen drove back to South Vietnamese territory on Highway 3 along the seacoast. U.S. spokesmen in Saigon said two helicopter carriers which had supported U.S. Army AH1 Cobra rocket-firing helicopters making air strikes in direct support of the South Vietnamese and Cambodians during the battle ended their operations today and sailed away from their off-shore stations in the Gulf of Thailand. It was not known exactly when the American air support began, although officials first acknowledged presence of the two carriers Jan. 17.

A bomb demolished an annex to Phnom Penh's electric power offices Sunday night, injuring six persons. It was the third night of terrorism that started with the major Communist attack on the Cambodian capital's airport early Friday morning.

The last government outpost on the Tonle Sap River fell to the Communists Sunday. It was at Saang, 30 miles from the capital, and had been defended by a battalion of Cambodian troops. There was no word on the fate of the government soldiers.

Other fighting was reported within 13 miles of Phnom Penh. Flight after flight of Cambodian T28 propeller-driven fighter-bombers flew over the capital Sunday to hit nearby targets and support government troops battling the Communists in various areas outside the city. The Cambodian High Command said today that 35 Cambodian air force planes were destroyed in the Communist attack Friday. Earlier, the official figure had been "more than 10."

Military officials ordered the full-scale alert following the blast at the electric annex. Civilians joined soldiers guarding government buildings and heavy military guards were placed at the approaches to Phnom Penh from the south and east, including the two main bridges across the Mekong River.

Green Berets Training 2,100 Cambodians

SAIGON (UPI)—Green Berets are training 2,100 Cambodians at bases in South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand in guerrilla tactics to use for attacks on North Vietnam's supply lines through Northeastern Cambodia, U.S. military sources said Sunday.

The training by the U.S.

Special Forces was organized outside Cambodia to sidestep a congressional ban on sending U.S. ground troops or advisers into Cambodia.

According to military sources, the Green Berets are training 300 Cambodians at two camps in South Vietnam, 300 at camps in Thailand and 1,500 at camps on the Bolovens Plateau in Southern Laos.

The two south Vietnamese camps are Long Hai, near Vung Tau on the seacoast south of Saigon, and Dong Batinh, south of Nha Trang on the central coast where the 5th Special Forces headquarters is situated.

The operations, the sources said, are being patterned after those of a 25,000-man guerrilla army the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has recruited, financed, armed and operated in the northeastern and panhandle areas of Laos for several years.

The U.S. Military Command officially disclosed Friday that more than $1.5 million has been appropriated to cover the cost of training Cambodians during the current fiscal year, but did not give details.

Newsmen have not been permitted to visit any of the camps where the training is taking place, but the military sources said the Cambodians are being trained in special on Communist supply lines.

The sources said the United States is planning to drop teams of Cambodians into the underpopulated northeast, where large open areas make Communist supply lines into the South Vietnam's Mekong Delta, the Saigon area and Central Highlands especially vulnerable to hit-and-run tactics. The guerrillas will be supported once they are on the ground by paratroops of munitions and supplies.

Aiken Warns 'May Have Stepped Over'

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States involvement in Cambodia has "reached the borderline and maybe stepped over" the limitations imposed by Congress, says Sen. George D. Aiken.

But the Vermont Republican, senior GOP member of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, was outstripped in his assessment by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who declared the American air support in Cambodia "contrary to the intent and spirit" of the congressional restrictions.

Although a closed meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee was called today, some senators, Mansfield among them, want the panel to hold public hearings on whether Nixon has gone beyond limits put on his action in Southeast Asia last year—the Cooper-Church Amendment.

The amendment—named for sponsoring Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho—bars U.S. combat ground troops and military advisers from Cambodia. Eyewitness reports and photographs last week indicated U.S. helicopter crewmen have set foot on Cambodian soil, but

White House and Pentagon officials denied they were advisers. Criticism of American action in Cambodia spread over the weekend. In Sacramento, Calif., Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said:

"We're just putting our big toe over the threshold. Before we know it, the whole foot and leg are over the threshold."

Muskie, the undeclared front-runner for his party's nomination to the presidency, also is being recommended by the Democratic Steering Committee to be named to the Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. George McGovern, the only announced Democratic candidate for the presidential nomination, said Nixon's "failure to pull us out of the Vietnam quagmire promptly and decisively is not an act of strength, but rather reveals a lack of the strength needed to face up to the enormity of our error and the seriousness of our predicament."

McGovern and Muskie both spoke at the California Democratic Convention.

Mansfield suggested Sunday that if the Foreign Affairs Committee doesn't call hearings to consider legislation covering the American role in Cambodia, he will call them himself in his Asian affairs subcommittee.

Aiken expressed reserve. "I don't think we should continue hearings for the publicity for the Foreign Relations Committee," he said.

"I'm not about to participate in any policy of harassment against the administration so long as it continues the policy of withdrawal from Southeast Asia," he added.

"If the main objective begins to get closer," he said, "then we have to be a little tolerant."

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said last week the United States will use air power in Cambodia whenever it is felt such action is needed to protect

Muskie Assures Soviet On Defense Spending

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has disclosed that he told Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin there is "a strong body of opinion in the United States" dedicated to reducing military spending in hopes that this might influence the Communist leader.

The Maine Democrat, leading prospect for his party's presidential nomination in 1972, said statesmen "ought to understand that they are dealing not only with governments which tend to represent one point of view at a time, but that there is usually another body of opinion in the country which may represent another point of view."

"When the Soviet Union is dealing with the United States, they ought to understand that not only do we have our administration's point of view, which is legitimate, and represents the view of an administration elected by the people, but that there is another one, and in dealing with the United States they ought to bear that in mind, and perhaps that would have an effect upon their policies."

Muskie spent 3 hours and 45 minutes in private conversation with Kosygin in Moscow Jan. 15.

He said he knew the Soviet premier was especially concerned about defense spending, its consequences for peace, and the diversion of resources into armaments, "so I told him that we were concerned about the cost of armaments and that in the Congress we were trying to do something about it, that we reduced the President's own budget in this field, that we were trying to divert these resources to more constructive purposes."

Muskie discussed his conversation with Kosygin in a taped CBS television interview with Merv Griffin to be broadcast later this week.

Muskie said during the interview that he was not in the Soviet Union "to solve any problems, because I have no official capacity to do that."

Asked afterwards whether he might be criticized on diplomatic grounds for discussing with Kosygin American viewpoints differing from those of the administration, Muskie replied, "Since I can say it here on the Senate floor, I don't see any damn reason why I can't say it to Kosygin."

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, the only announced candidate for the 1972 Democratic nomination, proposed meanwhile that the United States seek the admission of Communist China to the United Nations as a permanent member of the Security Council.

McGovern said Nationalist China should be dropped from the council.

McGovern also challenged the administration's year-old proposal for an antiballistic missile system designed to protect the United States against possible Red Chinese attack.

The undeclared Muskie, the openly campaigning McGovern and a third prospective candidate, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, have been on political patrol in California, seeking encouragement and financial support in the state that will field the biggest delegation to the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

McGovern's Entry, A Sticky Problem

George McGovern's early entry into the presidential race has posed a sticky problem for the government in deciding when a major White House candidate is entitled to Secret Service protection.

By one interpretation, the South Dakota Democrat will have to wait until the spring of 1972 and the start of the presidential primaries before he gets Secret Service body guards.

By another version, he could be entitled to protection immediately if a committee set up by Congress acts swiftly in cooperation with the Secretary of the Treasury.

McGovern said through an aide he will await the government's decision on whether he will be offered protection. "We have made no application for it," the aide said.

After the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Congress approved a resolution providing Secret Service body guards for all major candidates for the White House.

But the protection isn't automatic—and neither is the timing of it.

The resolution authorizes a special committee of House and Senate leaders to recommend to the Secretary of the Treasury the candidates to be protected.

The Treasury chief makes the decision based on the recommendation and then offers the protection to the candidates, who can accept or reject it.

The committee is composed of the speaker and minority leader of the House and the majority and minority leaders of the Senate, plus one member of Congress selected by the committee.
